REASONS FOR USING Water Baker & Co.'s Breakfast Cocoa.

1. Because it is absolutely pure.
2. Because it is not made by the so-called Dutch Process in which chemicals are used.
3. Because beans of the finest quality are used.
4. Because it is made by a method which preserves unimpaired the exquisite natural flavor and odor of the beans.
5. Because it is the most economical, costing less than one cent a cup.

Ungrateful Olmsted Strikes the Key-note. The Result of Next Tuesday's Election Will Affect the Next Presidential Campaign.

From the Lohman News.
Congressman Olmsted in his court house on Thursday evening struck the key-note of this campaign when, in reply to those who claim that the issues are purely local, he said:
"If this state only is concerned why are people from other states interested themselves? The issue is more national. The lines of the Western Union Telegraph company, if stretched out in a single wire, would reach more than 25 times around the globe, but if a Democratic state treasurer or a Democratic auditor general shall be elected in Pennsylvania on Nov. 2 every wire will be kept hot on the night of election carrying the news to every Democratic newspaper, every Democratic congressman, every Democratic orator and into every Democratic camp in the United States, and it will be claimed every where as a triumph of Bryanism and a rebuke to the Republican administration which has already accomplished so much good."

This is only too true, and we would impress this fact upon every Republican voter in this county, as well as upon all others who are desirous that this administration shall have full and hearty support. It matters very little who the candidates are, if they are honest and competent, and will discharge their duties honestly and faithfully, but although this is an off year, so called, it is of utmost significance whether the Republican party is maintained. It usually happens that in these off years the best work for the subsequent important elections is laid, and it is, therefore, highly necessary that the Republican party in this year gain a signal victory in state and county, so that it may be unified and the more important contest next year.

What disastrous results may follow a defeat of the Republican state ticket this year can be gathered from past experience. Congressman Olmsted pointed out the danger of the Democratic party in their effect on the future is to avoid the mistakes of the past. For the purpose of showing what influence a defeat of the Republican party in this state had upon other elections we will quote from Mr. Olmsted, who said:
"I call your attention to the fact that in 1882 Governor Beaver, the Republican candidate for governor, was opposed by an independent candidate who was defeated. I ask you to remember, also, that Pennsylvania's fall from the position of the Democratic party followed by the election of a Democratic president and of a Democratic congress, and by blue ruin generally. It will not do for us to encourage the Democratic party throughout the United States by the election of a Democratic officer in Pennsylvania, and why should we? Our candidates are most worthy ones, unimpeached and unimpeachable."

The speaker called attention to the fact that "the memory of the old-fashioned voter in the audience will not carry him back to the time when any independent or third party candidate was elected in Pennsylvania." The only thing independent candidates can expect to accomplish is to draw enough votes away from the Republican party to elect the Democratic ticket. This past experience also has proven. The fight, therefore, is really and only between the Republican and the Bryan-People party, a fact which every Republican should bear in mind when he goes to the polls on Tuesday, Nov. 2.

Her Remedies.
Doctors in the backwoods districts often find their patients will not take any medicine so long as they fancy that there is any possibility of effecting a cure without its aid. Their belief in "charms" is difficult to unsettle or combat.
A young doctor was called to attend the father of a baby who was afflicted with whooping cough, and the father, a well-to-do man, who was in the grip of a neuralgia fever on which his wife, with all her supposed skill, had been unable to make any impression.
The doctor noticed that the father of the child had a handkerchief tucked under his chin and he took a string from which dangled some small bones.
"What are those intended to cure—rheumatism?" he asked the mother, with a smile.
"No, doctor; those are no Mirandy'll have an easy time of it—gettin her teeth," was the response. "Those are rattlesnake bones. The critter was plowed up last spring when the men folks broke up a new piece of land. I jest took and biled him a couple of days and strung his bones on a string to hitch on to Mirandy's neck when 'twas time. She wa'n't but 6 weeks old then. I instintly they might be good for rheumatism, too, but 'tain't best to run no medical business 'till you know the best thing for rheumatism!"
"Perhaps I don't know your remedy," said the shrewd doctor.
"I reckoned everybody knew," said the woman, with monotonous animation. "Why you jest take four rattlesnake bones about three fingers wide and bind 'em on your ankles and wrists. It drives the worst kind of rheumatism off, they say."
"Doctor," said this believer in charms, with a dubious glance at the tender of medicine prepared for her husband, "be you sure that ain't anyways p'isonous? 'Cause I ain't tried bindin raw tomatoes on him yet, and there'd be some by the first of next week!"—Youth's Companion.

An Unfortunate Canadian Wilderness.
The vast country north of the Gulf of St. Lawrence is to be the scene of the most interesting region on this continent, if not in the world. For nearly four centuries the ships of civilization have sailed by it, yet, except at the very frontier, where there are the marks of the Indian, it is a blank. The rivers which pour forth from every opening in the hills bear witness that the back country is a network of lakes and water courses. Ask the commissioner of crown lands of the great province of Quebec today what he knows of the country of that region and he will tell you that it is the least known portion of North America; that only a few of the lakes have been surveyed; that two exploring
